PING-PONG PRESENTS PROBLEM

Long known as partners with a ~~KLING~~ strong family unity in the conduct of their business, it now appears to the ⁱⁿ several good friends in the food business who know them that the three Traverso Brothers, Vic, Bill and Jack are about to become bitter rivals in their impending Ping-Pong super-duper championship!

It all happened when, after Vic had taken up residence in the East Bay, and Jack had subsequently chosen to live down the peninsula, each of them acquired a Ping-Pong passion along with the usual suburban accoutrements... as well as, a rapidly growing pride in their own respective skills in batting the bouncing ballette over the net. An occasional boast about his batting ability to friends while in the presence of others has now brought the babble of battle right smack into the public eye and now everyone is waiting for the date to be set when the true victor will emerge from this first Ping-Pong Blitz in the history of their business association. Brother Bill, the lawyer, has been drawn into the conflict as the judge, score-keeper and mediator in all the verbal prearrangements. Betting is running high and seats are being reserved even though Vic has spotted his younger brother Jack a whole ten points. To the joust, gentlemen
